HSE Management of Contracts:

HSE Management of Contracts The role of managing HSE in contracts towards achieving Goal Zero is highly significant since the work by the contractors account for more than 90% of PDO's total exposure hours. Most of the exposure hours are of a high or medium, HSE risk, in nature. During

HSE Advice Note

through assurance processes (Letter of Assurance, LOA) Contract Holder-ship-Competence Competence is key to consistent management of HSE in contracts. PDO strives, through a Competence Assurance framework, to ensure that Contract staff is knowledgeable in the contract process. HSE workshops are conducted and the sessions are mandatory for contract staff. The PDO workshops have been developed to address common areas of identified weaknesses and to assess candidates to knowledge level in 4 main areas, namely: • Organisation, Responsibilities, Resources and HSE Requirements; • HSE Risk Management Framework; • HEMP for Significant Risks and HSE Cases • Integrate HSE into Business Plans and Procedures Contractor HSE Selection commonly known as evaluation or Banding The HSE Capability Assessment is an established process and presents a 'Go' or 'No-Go' report as part of the technical evaluation of contractors. The process includes the evaluation of the HSE Management system with additional information from contractors on their activities to promote HSE. The Procedure presents, the local and new type companies, an opportunity in tendering for PDO activities. However, the HSE review ensures that minimum HSE standards and expectations are upheld in support of PDO's

'Goal Zero' vision.

Enhancing Senior Manager Roles through assurance processes (Letter of Assurance, LOA)

When a contractor has been awarded a PDO contract it is then that the commitment of the senior managers is challenged.
This is achieved by sending out an annual Web based letter to all contractors in February each year. The Contractor is required to respond formerly to a simple questionnaire with focus on the implementation of the HSE management system within the Contractor Company. The response MUST be signed by the senior manager of the contractor company.
PDO then schedules a number of sample audits to further check on the quality of the response. In the event that PDO staff, or Contractor staff, require advice regarding HSE management in contracts
